

High deductible health plans

High-deductibles gain momentum

In the first three months of 2015, 36% of persons younger than age 65 with private health insurance were enrolled in a high-deductible health plan (HDHP), including 13% who were enrolled in a CDHP (an HDHP with a health savings account) and 23% who were enrolled in an HDHP without a health savings account.

Source: CDC/NCHS, National Health Interview Survey, 2010–2015, Family Core component.